HISTORICAL NOTE:

The first issue of NewsRounds, or News Rounds, currently published by Rush University Medical Center's Marketing and Communications Department, appeared in May 1963, as the newsletter of Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital. The first issue provided the following description of the newspaper. "The publication will be issued the first week of each month and will feature special news stories on the hospital, a calendar of events, as well as news items on members of the hospital family." Originally nameless, the newsletter held a "Name the Paper Contest." Florence Miller, a secretary in the division of medicine, submitted the winning entry of NewsRounds, which was first used for the July 1963 issue.

The paper's first issue as the newsletter of the newly formed Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center was June 1971. The next issue was the first issue titled "NewsRounds," July 1971, as one word, instead of two. It was published mostly monthly until 2004 when it began to appear quarterly. Because of its long, continuous run, NewsRounds is especially helpful in researching Rush's history of advancements in medicine, nursing, and the health sciences; and its commitment to education, research, and patient care.

[An issue summary or table of contents from 1963 to 1989 was compiled by Marketing in 1989. It was scanned and converted into text using OCR by Nathalie Wheaton, 2008. Table of contents, 1989-2003, entered by Katie Ingrum, Fall 2008. This is an ongoing project.]

Cover Story: On May 9, students took a break from classes to enjoy Rush University's third annual Rush University Day. The day started off with coffee and doughnuts while students signed up for the University bookstore raffle. Interesting educational events offered during the day included tours of the Sleep Disorder Service and Research Center, the gait laboratory, etc. There were two plays on aging, performed by the Department of Performing and Visual Arts of Roosevelt University and sponsored by the Medical Center's Humanities Program. The day's events ended with "mini olympics"-sack races, three-legged races, balloon "sit on it," kick ball race, egg toss, the tug-of-war and a pie eating contest.

Cover Story: Our Heart's in the Right Place. A Tradition of Caring. The United Way/Crusade of Mercy campaign at the Medical Center kicked off October 1, and it already is off to a good start. The Rush "family" of more than 7,000 employees and staff is being asked to reach a new record of generosity this year. The goal for 1984 is $211,000. Co-chair Carvalho gives of Experience, Knowledge and Time. Anna Carvalho, M.S., has been appointed co-chairperson of the Medical Center's 1984 campaign. Ms. Carvalho has put in a lot of time as a volunteer management consultant. A volunteer like Anna Carvalho not only shares her time and talent, she helps the United Way stretch its resources. Our heart's in the right place - our neighborhood. Late this summer Medical Center employees had the chance to witness their Crusade of Mercy dollars at work -- in this case, very close to home. Marcy-Newberry Association, Inc., is a 100-year-old association devoted to providing day care, after school supervision and summer camp for children; recreational, educational and cultural development for teens; and adult and senior citizen programs and activities.

Cover Story: Medical Center Diversifies Health Services
In fulfilling its commitment to serve 1.5 million people in northern Illinois, the Rush System for Health is expanding to offer a number of medical care services to employers for their employees through a new, not-for-profit division of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's, Diversified Health Services (DHS). DHS includes the Corporate Health Center, located in One Place, one of Chicago's newest office towers, and several occupational health centers. They are the Corbett Clinic, 1380 West Lake Street; Elston Industrial Medical Centers with two locations in Chicago, at 1535 Elston Avenue and 3521 Elston Avenue; and Suburban Medical Center, 9540 West Addison Street, Franklin Park. Members of all staffs are now employees of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's.
Corporate Health Center. Located on the ninth floor of the 40-story office tower, Corporate Health Center has a staff of three physicians and three nurse practitioners - James J. Collins, M.D.; Ellen D. Mason, M.D., and Morris Papernick, M.D., who spend 20 hours a week at the center, and Terri Grosskopf, R.N., and Deborah Dubeck, R.N., who are there full-time. The staff also includes a part-time nurse, Debra Hahn McNulty, R.N., and office manager Joan Eng. CHC offers employers with office in One Financial Place a package of programs which can provide immediate, long-range and cost-effective health services for employees and their dependents.

Occupational Health Centers. Each occupational health center under the DSHS umbrella offers health care packages specifically designed for employees of industrial firms. The clinics already have established relationships with some 2,000 Chicago-area companies that range in size from ten to almost 5,000 employees. Medical treatment for work-related injuries and illnesses is provided in addition to physical examinations, diagnostic services, physical therapy, disability evaluations and health records maintenance.

Bar. You don't have to be Italian to appreciate the cafeteria's new pasta bar. Open from 3:30 to 7 p.m. every other Thursday, the bar features a variety of pasta and sauces as well as thick slices of garlic bread and Parmesan cheese. The pasta bar is the newest addition to the weekly dinner line-up. A Mexican fiesta of tacos, tortillas and refried beans is available Wednesdays; on alternate Thursdays, the cafeteria offers a potato bar with a variety of toppings. A salad bar is available at all weekday evening meals and on weekends from 10:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. "I want the pasta bar to be different, unique, out of the ordinary," says Cathie Stein, dietetic intern, food and nutrition services, who developed the bar for the management portion of her internship. "For taste and for the package price ($1.80 a serving), it competes very well with restaurants," says Stein.

Volume 23, Number 4, May 1985
Cover Story: Meet the Medical Center’s First In Vitro Baby! From Dish to Delivery-RPSLMC First IVF Baby. "It’s a miracle." Everyone said it. John and Brenda Autrey, the parents. Rita Basuray, Ph.D., who combined the sperm and egg in a culture dish. W. Dmowski, M.D., Ph.D., director of the In Vitro Fertilization (IVF) program. Ewa Radwanska, M.D., associate director. All of the nurses, consulting physicians and support staff who assisted. In fact, the only one who didn’t seem impressed was Tiffany Lynn Autrey, the center of all the fuss. Tiffany, the Medical Center’s first IVF baby, was born by Cesarean section at 12:49 p.m. Wednesday, March 14, weighing in at a hefty 8 pounds, 13 and one-half ounces. "When I look at the little dish she was conceived in and I look at her, it’s hard to believe," says Brenda, 26. "You just can’t put it in words, it’s so fantastic." The Autreys joined the Medical Center’s IVF Program a month after it opened in November 1983. "It was the only hope we had, other than adoption," says John. "And we wanted to have one of our own." Forty-seven women are currently enrolled in the IVF Program, ranging in age from 23 to 42 years old. To date, the IVF team has per-formed 38 laparoscopies and 26 embryo transfers on 23 patients. "Even in the longest-running IVF program, one-third to one-half of the pregnancies don’t progress. That illustrates how difficult the process is," Dr. Radwanska says. That difficulty only makes Tiffany’s birth more special, Dr. Radwanska adds. "We all have been treating infertility for many years, and I still feel a thrill each time a baby is born. I don’t think we’ll ever become immune to the joy. It’s such an enormous reward."

Parting Shots: There are always activities going on for youngsters and teens in the pediatric and adolescent units, but they seemed all the more special during Children and Hospitals Week, March 24-30. Events included a staff-patient costume role reversal, movies and popcorn, a visit by Ronald McDonald and make-your-own-lunch fees. There was also a sibling party in pediatric intensive care. All employees got a chance to "celebrate" by donating to a clothing drive for infants and toddlers and viewing the week-long exhibit in the fourth floor Atrium gallery that spotlighted art work by our young patients. In addition, seminars were held for Medical Center staff that focused on "Children and Cancer," "The Hospitalized Adolescent-Why Do They Need a Special Place?" and "The Psycho-Social Needs of Disabled Children/Adolescents and Their Families: How Can the Health Professions Help?"

Cover Story: Leo M. Henikoff, M.D., Installed as Rush University President. Academic Symposium, Convocation Highlight Inaugural Ceremonies. Medical Center Trustees and Rush University faculty members as well as Chicago civic and business leaders and delegates from college, universities and learned societies from across the country gathered to honor Leo M. Henikoff, M.D., at his formal installation as president of Rush University on May 2 at Medinah Temple. Dr. Henikoff was appointed president of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center last July. The convocation culminated a two day celebration which included an academic symposium and reception on May 1 and a civic luncheon and post-convocation reception the following day. The convocation, which was presided over by Harold Byron Smith, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees, included the presentation of honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degrees to the symposium speakers and an inaugural address by Dr. Henikoff. Three national leaders in the health care field participated in the academic symposium. "The Role of the Academic Medical Center in the 21st Century, which was held at the Medical Center. The educators warned that academic medical centers face difficult times ahead if they are not willing to quickly adapt to the changing health care environment. David E. Rogers, M.D., president of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, and Virginia V. Weldon, M.D., vice president of Washington University Medical Center (St. Louis), both predicted the need for the medical center to reduce their student and faculty size in order to safeguard quality. Columbia University economist Eli Ginzberg, Ph.D., suggested that current pressures to restrain costs might "reinject" some sense into American Medicine" by curbing what he termed "the use and abuses of high technology."

Volume 23, Number 6, July/August 1985

Cover Story: It was a year ago that eight-year-old Melissa Tichnor underwent bone transplant surgery to remove a tumor from her leg, just above the ankle. Now she and Patricia Piasecki, M.S., R.N., orthopedic surgery, can't help but smile about her progress since then. Until recently, amputation would have been the only treatment available for Melissa, a patient of Steven Gitelis, M.D., who heads the Section of Orthopedic Oncology and the Bone Bank. Now allografting is used to save a limb by replacing a tumorous bone with human cadaver bone.

Cover Story: Helping to Make a Difference (United Way/Crusade of Mercy Campaign) HSI is one of the many Chicago-area agencies that survives because you support the United Way/Crusade of Mercy. In August, a group of Medical Center employees toured the agency to see just how it helps its clients. "We serve more than 260,000 people, mostly Blacks and Hispanics, who live in the North Lawndale, Garfield Park and Austin communities," HSI's dynamic executive director, Larry Byrd, told 15 Medical Center employees before they toured the facility. "About half of the population here is below the poverty level, and 15 percent of the potential labor force is disabled. Our job is to create new avenues of self-support and self-fulfillment for these people." HSI staff members do this by offering vocational and educational services, child care, substance abuse counseling, and housing to people of all ages. The United Way/Crusade of Mercy serves millions of Chicago-area residents who need a helping hand. By donating to the campaign: those who are employed help those who are unemployed; those who are in good health help those who are sick; those who have well-cared for children help those who need day care for their youngsters and those who are young and strong help those who are old and frail.

Cover Story: Wellness Week. Medical Center employees made New Year's resolutions for living healthier a little early by taking part in Wellness Week, September 24 to 28, and by making commitments to change some health habits. "Wellness Week was the first event sponsored under the new Employee Health and Fitness Program," said Meg Evans, R.N., program coordinator. "Forty employees signed up for the 'Let's Get Physical' beginning exercise class, and 27 signed up for the stop-smoking program." Some 400 people stopped at the mobile health unit stations to be tested for high blood pressure, lung capacity, strength, flexibility and endurance, or to have their percentage of body fat assessed. Other events during the week included a beginning exercise demonstration by the staff of CHAMP (Cardiovascular Health and Maintenance Program), a "Taste of Health" food-tasting booth featuring nutritious dishes from the Women's Health Congress, a "relaxation" seminar, and presentations on self-protection and sleep and health. "We distributed 2,850 pieces of literature on health, nutrition, and fitness during Wellness Week," said Evans. "We're glad to see that so many employees are interested in their health and we'll continue to offer health-related programs, seminars and courses to employees."

Volume 24, Number 2, February 1986
Cover Story: Child Psychiatry Unit Opens To Aid Troubled Children. It is estimated that of the 11 percent of American children who have some type of mental problem, almost half suffer from depression. To help these children the Section of Child Psychiatry recently opened a 14-bed inpatient unit, specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of childhood depression and related affective disorders. The Children’s Inpatient Program is designed to respond quickly to the depressed child’s behavioral, educational, medical and familial problems. Says child psychiatrist Linda Freeman, M.D., medical director of the program: "We spent more than a year developing this unit, planning the actual architectural layout, comprehensive programming and the staff of professionals we would need to effectively diagnose and treat more severely disturbed children." The result is a comprehensive blend of medical, psychiatric, educational and psychological evaluation and treatment services which can serve children with severe emotional problems (depression, psychosis, autism, conduct disorders, eating disorders) and those who have both psychiatric and medical problems (diabetes, ulcerative colitis, respiratory illness, epilepsy). There are specially equipped rooms on the unit for handicapped children and to monitor those with chronic medical problems.

Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center usually traces its beginnings back to two days before the chartering of the City of Chicago in 1837. At the May 21 Founders Day President's Luncheon for employees with 15 or more years of service, Leo M. Henikoff, M.D., president, took the history one step further: 'If you add up the years of service of all the people in this room (4,355 years), they are longer than the recorded history of man. And if you include the years of service of the five and 10-year employees (9,640 years), we are discussing prehistoric times.'

Cover Story: Students Celebrate Spring

The Medical Center’s commitment to biomedical research was never clearer than during this year’s University Research Week, when more than 500 physicians, scientists and students heard prominent Rush faculty and researchers from other institutions describe and discuss current investigations, pioneering medical discoveries and the relationship between government, industry and academic health centers. The program featured the Sigma Xi poster session and addresses by Nobel laureates, the director of the National Institutes of Health, the research director of a large pharmaceutical corporation and Rush students.

Title: Getting ready for the holidays
Cover Story: Sometimes you just can't help humming the old tunes. After all, it is beginning to look (and feel!) a lot like Christmas around the Medical Center. The signs are everywhere...nursing stations and offices are decorated, last minute items are purchased at the gift shop and the choir is warming up for the December concerts. The warmth and caring of the hospital staff is evident in many ways at this time of the year--especially in the Adopt-A-Family program of generous gifts of food, clothing and other items for needy Chicagoans.

RPSLMC appointments:
Wally Duzansky has been re-appointed director of housekeeping services. He has served as a member of the Service Master management team at Rush since 1981, most recently as area manager. Duzansky has 30 years of housekeeping management experience in a variety of capacities ranging from franchise owner to manager of several large accounts for the Service Master Limited Partnership.
Sandra K. Shepherd, Ph.D., is the new coordinator of nutrition education and marketing, Department of Food and Nutrition Services. She has also been appointed assistant professor in the Department of Clinical Nutrition. Dr. Shepherd's research interests include message impact in nutrition education and the use of marketing techniques for gathering consumer feedback on nutrition education programs. She completed her Ph.D. in nutrition at Pennsylvania State University and, prior to that, held administrative and faculty positions at the University of Tennessee and Northwestern State University in Louisiana.
Giacomo A. De Laria, M.D., cardiovascular-thoracic surgery, has been named director, Section of Vascular Surgery. A senior attending surgeon and associate professor, Dr. De Laria also continues as director of the noninvasive diagnostic laboratory. He is experienced in cardiovascular mechanics, circulatory support, artificial organs and the use of non-thrombogenic materials. Dr. De Laria, who joined the medical staff in 1978 after completing his residency here, received his M.D. from Tufts University School of Medicine and M.S. in bioengineering from the University of California at San Diego.
Flex Reimbursement Accounts, Open Enrollment Now Through December 16: Flexible Reimbursement Accounts enable you to use "pre-tax" dollars to help pay for your family dental expenses and necessary dependent care. Iris Shannon, Ph.D., R.N., acting chairperson, community health nursing, received the YMCA 1988 Outstanding Achievement Award Science/Medicine/Technology, which was presented at the Leader Lunch-on-EVII on October 6. Nine other Rush nurses were recognized at the luncheon for their contributions to the Medical Center and the nursing profession. They were: Geraldine Peacock, R.N., medical nursing; Kim Litwack, Ph.D., R.N., O.R. and surgical nursing; Janet Delgado, M.S., R.N., medical nursing; Roberta Fruth, M.S., R.N., medical nursing; Judy Friedrichs, M.S., R.N., pediatric nursing; Margaret Faut, M.S., R.N., O.R. and surgical nursing; Catherine Ferrario, M.S., R.N., medical nursing; Sandra McFolling, R.N., discharge planning; and Joanne Spiess, R.N., medical nursing.
In the news:
Methods of conserving blood in surgery was the focus of a recent Chicago Sun-Times health and science Sunday feature. The story included comments by Bruce Spiess, M.D., anesthesiology, who also described a pilot project of autologous donation for high-risk patients started earlier this year.
Modern Healthcare's cover story on hospital telecommunications advances included a story about the PBX phone system installed by AT&T at Rush, and comments from John Short, M.M., administration.

[Revised January 2016]
The Dissociative Disorders Unit at Sheridan Road Hospital was the focus of a three-part report on WMAQ-TV's ten o'clock news. Bennett Braun, M.D., psychiatry, was featured. Multiple personality was also the focus of a major feature story in the Chicago Tribune, again quoting Dr. Braun. Chicago Tribune magazine columnist Jim Warren devoted a large portion of one of his columns to the cover art similarity of Promise Magazine and the October issue of The Atlantic.

Research on the treatment of winter depression being conducted by Charmane Eastman, Ph.D., psychology and social sciences, was the focus of a recent Chicago Tribune Tempo section feature. The Chicago Sun-Times ran an in-depth report on an experimental form of head and neck cancer therapy that's been developed and tested at Rush. Samuel G. Taylor IV, M.D., internal medicine, and Anantha Murthy, M.D., therapeutic radiology, were quoted in the story.

Long Island Newsday turned to Harold L. Klawans, M.D., neurological sciences and pharmacology, for definitive comment on the value of exercise to Parkinson's patients.
