How to search for JBI Publications in CINAHL

!CINAHL Complete Link

2. A new window will load with a login window. Enter your Rush login credentials you use for MyRushPC, RUConnected, or Rush Outlook webmail.

!Login Window

3. Once the CINAHL database loads. Click the Publications link in the top left of the blue navigation bar.
4. The publications search box will load. Under “Browsing: CINAHL Complete—Publications” enter JBI into the search box, and click Browse. A list of JBI publications will be listed below the search box.

5. Click the hyperlinked title of the journal you would like to search for systematic reviews on your topic. Details about the publication will load, and a list of available issues will be listed on the right. Click Search within this publication.
6. The advanced search box will load. The journal name will be in the first search box. Enter your keywords into the search boxes under neither, and uncheck Suggest Subject Terms above the search box. Then click Search.

7. If you find an article you would like to read. Click the green “Get It @ Rush” and follow the links to either the full text or ILLiad, our online document delivery service. Most ILLiad requests for articles and book chapters are filled within three business days.
Effectiveness of non-pharmacological interventions in treating orthostatic hypotension in the elderly and people with a neurological condition: a systematic review protocol.

Review question/objective: The objectives of the review are to determine: * The effectiveness of non-pharmacological interventions for OH in elderly people and people with a neurological condition...

If you need assistance, please contact the Library Services Desk at (312) 942-5950.